

CV Dislikes Presidential Candidates

By Avery Brown

Canyon View students have opinions about the candidates running for U.S. President this year. Although we aren't old enough to vote, students have decided who they would vote for if they could. Surveyed students were given the options Donald Trump, Hillary Clinton, or other. CVMS students circled which option they would vote for just as if they were voting themselves. This article will express the interesting results.

One sixth grade, one seventh grade and one eighth grade class took the survey. The 6th grade class with 23 students had 2 votes for Hillary Clinton, 8 votes for Donald Trump, with the other 13 voting "other." The results were similar in the 7th and 8th grade classes. With 52 students voting, 7 voted for Clinton, 20 for Trump, and 25 for "other." Based on this information, we can conclude that though several support a specific candidate, most dislike both.

Clowns, Hoax or a Real Threat

By Avery Brown

Recently at CVMS as well as other schools all over, there has been much debate over clowns. The rumors are that people dressed as clowns are out to get kids. We asked students a few questions about clowns. How do your answers compare?

On a scale from 1-10 how worried should we be about clowns?

If you are like Mia Gatherum, Alexys Coates, Kru Huxford, and many others, you gave ratings from 1 to 3. Bree Colbert went as far as to say, "Negative 100, they are so fake!" However, many of our students including Janzi Horman, Rylie Horton, Nicole Whitelaw, and some others gave ratings as high as 7 and 8. One student, wishing to remain anonymous, called clowns "a pressing problem."

Are they out to get us, or is this just a prank? Delaney Miller boldly responded, "This is just a prank. We have a higher chance of getting cancer than being murdered by clowns." At least half of the surveyed students think similarly. Dylan Heyborne said clowns are "Just a prank Bro." Others are not so optimistic, and think clowns are a real threat.

Would you even know about the clowns if not for social media? An enormous majority answered no, but some insisted they would.

Should we ban clown costumes from the stores? Morgan Haycock thinks, "No, clown costumes should not be banned! Immature kids need to grow up because it's not funny." Similarly, Sydney Jessen said, "People are blowing this way out of proportion. If people want to dress up like clowns, they should be able to."

What do you think? Is this a real danger, or just a clever hoax?

Do You Know the New Student Council

By Avery Brown

Towards the beginning of the year, Canyon View elected our student council members. How much do you know about our student council?

8th grade President Lani Hansen's favorite color is blue. She spends her free time "playing sports, listening to music, and watching Netflix." She joined student council because she "wanted to be involved with as much as I can this year, because I want everyone to have a great year. My friends and family were inspiring." Her favorite food? "I will eat anything."

Seventh grade President

Deidra Barton says her favorite colors are "gold/grey/white." Deidra joined to "be involved and make things better, plus, student council is a place to be in charge and to become a better leader." Her favorite food is onion rings, and she says her most embarrassing moment was when, "My friend pushed me into someone I liked in front of pretty much the entire grade."

Elsie Call our 6th grade President likes the color "sunset orange." Her hobbies include "playing my cello/bass, reading, soccer, and cross country." Her favorite food is potatoes, and her favorite school subject is orchestra. Elsie joined student council because she likes "helping people and finding solutions."

Our school Secretary, Mia Gatherum's favorite color is green, and she loves to act. Her favorite subject in school is history. Mia has held student council positions in 6th and 7th grade. As for her most embarrassing moment, "That's for me to know and no one else!" she said.
