Dear Doctor Bill – Teen Advice

DEAR DR. BILL:

I really need your help. I'm 13 and I know I'm a little young, but there's a boy I have known for a while. We used to text all the time, and then we got into a fight. We both said rude things, and then after a while he started talking to me again and acting like he didn't care. In fact, he told me that. Then we stopped talking again and he blocked me on Instagram.

Well, this school year he came to my school, and he's very popular. He stares at me every day when we pass each other and once he said hi to me.

What I'm confused about is why does he keep unblocking me and blocking me on social media? Why is he doing everything he's done? I hope you can help.

-- BLOCKED IN MISSOURI

DEAR BLOCKED:

The first time he blocked you, he probably did it to punish you for having hurt his feelings during the fight. Now he may be doing it to get a reaction from you, or because for some reason he doesn't want you to be able to see what he's saying and doing.

The opposite of love isn't hate; it's indifference. Because he stares at you in the hallway, I suspect he likes you. Don't chase him. Just be patient and let it play out. It is always best to have a lot of friends and to treat others the way you want to be treated no matter what.

However, if you are the victim or any type of bullying on social media, it is very important that you tell a trusted adult.
